Genoa Springboard In New Larger Building

Genoa Incubator Prepping for New Businesses

After Genoa Springboard's successful first run, volunteers are preparing a new building to house entrepreneurs interested in locating in downtown Genoa. The small business incubator has been operated by Genoa Main Street, Inc. since 2010. The project has moved from its first location at 511 W. Main Street to a new location in the former Genoa City Hall at 113 North Genoa Street.

"We're very excited to be opening a new larger space," says Linda Underwood, project leader. "Our first building had room for two tenants. This building could eventually house up to eight."

The first tenant in the building is Beacon Counseling Services with Rev. Tim Frick offering pastoral counseling to individuals, couples and families. Reverend Frick recently retired from Trinity Lutheran Church in Genoa. Beacon Counseling can be reached at 815 784-2362.

"We are accepting applications for the rest of the available space. The building is well suited to professional services, health services, artists and musicians, distribution services and other office space uses," continued Underwood. "Rents are very reasonable and mentoring is provided to help businesses get off to a good start."
